GOLD MOUNTAIN GROUP HAS BEEN PURCHASED

GOLDFIELD MEN WILL ORGANIZE A COMPANY AND START WORK AT ONCE

Hughes Sutherland yesterday disposed of his Unlight group of claims in the Gold Mountain section of the Tonopah mining district, receiving a substantial cash consideration and retaining a stock interest. The deal was made by J. E. Bevis, with whom are associated J. M. Fenwick, Charles R. Evans, R. W. Cattermole, F. W. Mechlin and C. W. Webster, all residents of Goldfield.

The purchasers are already proceeding to incorporate as the Sutherland Divide Mining company. The group consists of six claims. It is centrally located, it being crossed by the Tonopah-Goldfield road. From this property a shipment of rich ore was made from the surface several years ago. It is traversed by a very evident cross fissure.

TONOPAH RED CROSS MAKES A SHIPMENT

MANHATTAN AUXILIARY SENDS MANY USEFUL ARTICLES TO LOCAL DEPARTMENT

The Red Cross auxiliary at Manhattan sent in a box yesterday containing 55 scutellus bandages, a somewhat difficult type to make. From the busy work-room at Round Mountain came 39 scutellus bandages, 6 pairs pajamas, 1 hospital shirt and one sweater.

Last week a box from the sewing room went to the Pacific coast division headquarters, containing 54 pairs of pajamas. Two boxes of surgical dressings were shipped yesterday, one from each division of that department. The one filled with American models contained 18 large cotton pads. These were made within the last few days. The one from the French model department contained the following: 6700 compresses, 110 eye bandages, 100 "T" binders, 20 bath mitts, 3960 drains, and 10 pneumonia jackets. This represents about one month's work.

STURDY PROSPECTOR USES PEON METHOD

TONOPAH MAN PACKS HIS ORE UP THE LADDER ON HIS SHOULDER

The Congress mine, which is located at Johnnie in the Funeral range in the lower end of Nye county, 135 miles south of Tonopah, and which is owned by M. B. Bartlett of this city, was visited yesterday by Henry Bartlett and Wm. Moody. They made the trip by auto in Mr. Moody's car.

This property was leased several months ago to Jack Millett, a carpenter of this place. On his arrival at the property, which is several miles from the nearest habitation, he began work and in a few days he uncovered a vein of $50 gold ore. Rather than return to the nearest camp and obtain bucket and rope he resorted to the slow and laborious "peon" method of packing the ore up a sixty-foot incline ladder on his back. In all he has eight tons on the dump.

Another prospector in the vicinity had taken out and shipped and realized enough money to purchase a two-stamp mill. With this equipment, Mr. Millett will have his ore milled near the place of extraction. It is this type of sturdy prospector that paves the way for the big companies to make the heavy extraction which distinguishes the mining industry in southern Nevada.

AMUSEMENTS

Viola Dana ably demonstrates her ability as a dancer in "The Winding Trail," today's feature at the Butler. In this picture Miss Dana is cast as a dancer, first on Broadway, New York, and then in a "wild and woolly" western dance hall. As a metropolitan premier danseuse, she trips about on her toes in a most creditable performance. Incidentally, little Viola's first public appearance was as a toe dancer when she was five years old. She has continued her training, studying for a time under Madame Bonfanti, a noted dancing teacher. Miss Dana does a picturesque Spanish dance full of charm and spirit on the crude stage of the "Golden Moon" dance hall in scenes of this picture. The genial proprietor introduces her as a little girl who "surely can shake a mean hoof," and the winsome little star typifies the dance hall girl. In her lively dance she snaps her fingers and swishes her skirts in time to the music, and she puts it over with snap and "pep." Naturally she gets a big hand from the boys and is the star attraction. "The Winding Trail" is filled with soul-stirring events in rapid succession and the unusual ending will cause discussion and the keenest interest. Some comedy today, it is one of those of Mack Sennett's, the kind that every one likes. "His Hidden Purpose," a two-reel comedy that is a scream indeed. Marie Provost has a group of scenes, one is swimming as in nature and is chased by a wrathful fam. This comedy is filled with things that will compel laughter and a sure guarantee for what ails you. Tomorrow Ethel Clayton in "The Stolen Paradise," also "Vengeance and the Woman." Plenty of excitement. Fairbanks Monday.
